ACROSS the DESK

From the Lincoln Times, Lincoln, N. C. If you are an average driver, you commit an error on the public thoroughfare every fourteenth of a mile you drive—or 25,000 of them every 10,000 miles. That is the conclusion of experts who checked 10,000 U. S. streets and highways over 20,000 miles in a number of states, and under the supervision of the American Automobile Association.

Most common of all specific errors was the failure to signal turns—which occurred 45 times per 100 drivers. Which makes you wonder how many of these drivers wouldn't bother to signal at all if they weren't under test observation.

There is no question about the traffic hazards such failures create. We are informed by them every day. But, do these mistakes constitute violations of law? Undoubtedly, the answer is "Yes—and No!"

What most late laws require is that turn signals be given when either traffic may be affected by the turning movement. In effect, what the law says to our millions of drivers—good, bad and indifferent, novice and veteran alike—is: "Go ahead and give a turn signal if you think it is needed. It is not much of a law that leaves compliance to the judgment of the individual—since enforcement is obviously impossible.

It should be clear to every legislator—even if he doesn't drive—that such horse-and-buggy laws breed accidents, bloodshed, property damage and traffic snarls in city streets and on high speed highways. Turn-signal laws should be made unequivocal—as rigid as the rules that require railroad engineers to whistle for crossings. And to secure compliance, with unmistakable intent by day or night, these laws must require that such signals be given by means of the directional turn signal lamps with which every modern car and truck is equipped by the manufacturer.

Further, it seems downright silly that it should be necessary to mention these obvious facts in this day and age. But with 45 drivers out of 100 delinquent in their duty to signal turns, time is a-wasting!

From the News Review, Riverhead, N. Y.: There is no argument, sure, against the premise that the only hope of freedom, here or elsewhere, lies in education; education in extended quantity; education in broadened scope; education in concentrated quality.

Economic Highlights

happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Worries.

Herbert Hoover has said, "Our federal budgeting and accounting is not adapted to today's enormous expenditures. Two things have resulted. No one can tell what the actual expenditures of the Government really are. And for this reason, and the continuing appropriations, Congress has lost control of the purse—the very foundation of free men."

A newsletter published by the Guaranty Trust Company of New York goes into this matter in some detail, under the title "In the Budget Out of Control?" The answer to that question, apparently, is at least a qualified Yes. The reasons lie largely in the method by which each annual budget is prepared. It is a method that might be fairly described as a smaller and simpler enterprise than the U. S. government itself. That it is a method that is something very different when applied to a government that has more than 2,000,000 civilians, and spends around $72 billion a year.

The Executive branch of the government prepares a budget and then submits it to the Congress. So far so good. But the trouble, in the newsletter's words, is that "the Executive budget is a vast aggregation of specific requests by many officials, most of whom are enthusiastic believers in the functions and programs which they respectively administer." Human nature being what it is, it is practically all of these officials want to do things on an expanding scale. "This constant pressure for higher rather than lower expenditures can be effectively checked by the President and only so far as he is prepared to do so will the expenditures of the U. S. government be kept within the limits of the budget. The President is in a position to do this."

Continued in a series of articles on the subject of the budget and the economy in the other day, the Senate Finance Committee very quickly reported out a bill to authorize construction of the $100 million Hells Canyon Dam in the Pacific Northwest.

Authorization of this huge outlay of federal funds would indeed be directly contrary to the mandate Congress has received from the public to reduce, rather than increase, expenditures.

I am certain the people of Maine and other New England states have an wish to see there are dollars used to furnish the Northwest with cheap hydroelectric power which in turn would be employed to offset industries away from our section of the country.

The fact that a private power company already has spent over $10 million on a project at the Hells Canyon site makes the legislation seem even more unjustifiable.

Civil Rights — The battle over civil rights legislation continues in Congress. So far a power minority from the South has successfully kept their important measure buried in Committee.

I signed a discharge petition recently to dislodge the House bill from the Rules Committee, where it has been held up since April 1.

Ordinarily I don't sign discharge petitions because I don't like to interfere with the normal process of legislation through standing legislative committees, but this is a highly exceptional situation.

Unless the bill is acted on soon in the House, it will be too late in the session to obtain passage in the Senate, where the danger of a filibuster is ever present.

Last year the House didn't pass the bill until July 23, after it had been delayed for many weeks in the Rules Committee. Congress adjourned at the end of the month before the Senate could act.

I hope this situation is not repeated this year.

Jordan — The outstanding fact to emerge from the current Jordan crisis has been the extraordinary leadership shown by King Hussein.

At 22 years of age, the young monarch has stood up to both World Communism and Egyptian imperialism and seems to have emerged the winner. In America, many young men of his age are still playing college football.

King Hussein first indicated he was coming of age when he kicked out British General Glubb on March 2, 1954. With the British gone, he was on his own. The Communists and Colonel Nasser must have felt they could replace the British. Recent events have shown how much they underestimated the independence of the young monarch's mind and his capacity to assert himself.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Andrews observed their 50th wedding anniversary on May first. Open House, arranged by the daughters, was held during the afternoon and evening, and many friends, neighbors, and relatives called to felicitate them.

The many gifts included two decorated anniversary cakes and a bouquet of yellow carnations, with to one-dollar bills arranged in the flowers. A special event of the day was a telephone call from Mrs. Andrews' aunt, Mrs. Susie Bennett, of Cleveland, Ohio, who is more than 80 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews were married at Bethel, May 1, 1907, by Rev. Charles Gleason. They lived in Albany until 1918, when Mr. Andrews received appointment as rural mail carrier at Bryant Pond, and they moved here. ## TODAY'S Meditation

Thursday, May 9
Read Isaiah 55:1-13.

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts; and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon. (Isaiah 55:17).

MANY years ago a man of bad reputation lived in our rural community. His neighbors had good reason to doubt his uprightness. He did an unusual thing. He sewed to the outer garment on his back a white cross, which he thereafter wore.

His youthful nephew said to him: "Uncle, I've heard of the thief on the cross, but I never before saw a cross on a thief."

A sacred symbol used falsely deceives neither God nor the person himself. Unless what we are from day to day confirms our Christian profession, our lives are out of harmony with the eternal God.

Hypocrisy, deceit, and sham were disdained by our Lord, for they have no place in the gospel of brotherly love. In its noblest meaning, character is Christ-like. The cross symbolizes the finest in our Christian religion—God's gift of love revealed to mankind!

Prayer — Our Father, we thank Thee for making known to us the truth that our discipleship demands proof in the way we live. Cleanse us of hypocrisy, deceit, and sham. Help us to develop Christlike character. In His name we ask it. Amen.

Thought For The Day — Discipleship demands that I be in accord with the will of the infinite God.

GOULD ACADEMY

Gould Academy's junior varsity baseball team has started the season on the right foot by downing the Hebron Academy J.V.s and the Paris J.V.s 6 to 5 and 12-5, respectively.

Linwood Small went all the way to beat Hebron as his teammates collected only four hits.

Tim Race received credit for the Paris win as his teammates took off on the Paris pitchers. Bob Felt and Linwood Small each homered for the visitors.

Gould's sports calendar will feature a track meet with Cony High at Augusta here May 11 at 1:30.

The varsity baseball team will play at Norway, Friday, May 10, and entertain Bridgton here Tuesday, May 14.

The J. V. nine will play host to the Mexico J.V.s here Saturday at 3:30.

Senior Day at Gould Saturday was senior day at Gould. At nine thirty o'clock the tennis match got underway and for three hours the classes battled it out and when the last balls rolled into the net the seniors found themselves the victors. Jane Yeaton took first for women's singles, Bill Yeaton became the champ in the men's division while Bill Ripley and Donna Bartlett captured the mixed doubles.

At one-thirty, with the assistance of two varsity track men, Bill Galbraith and Guy Whitten, the track events began. The one hundred yard dash was won by Jean Trowbridge for the girls and Ricky Cummings for the boys. This was followed by the broad jumping where Deane McCann kept in victory for the Freshmen with Timmy Carter taking the men's title. In the high jump Judith Watson proved to be the sophomore high jumper and Jigger Jodrey took the men's first place. The low hurdles proved to be an interesting event finding Ruth Willard, with the agility of a frog, across the finish line first.

The final event was the basketball throw where Donna Jeanne Bigos and Guy Whitten tossed their way to victory. Next on the program—a shoe scramble; at the end of the whistle the girls became thundering elephants as they dashed to grab a shoe—it was successful as the seniors made money and the kids had fun.

At three o'clock, under the stern eyes of three capable umpires, Mr. Ireland, Mr. Vachon, and Mr. Berry, the softball games started. Here again the sophomore athletic skill proved profitable as they walked off with the championship.

Saturday night the class winners were announced and as fate would have it the scales tallied as such: Sophomores 24, Seniors 24, Jun-
